Federal League Promoters Are Likely to Have Troubles of Own

Face Prospect of Organized orbitant salaries or an average of four such stipends per club? If it does that, it will eat into the gate receipts frightfully, and then some Training Has Almost Ar-

(Mack's Weekly sport Letter.) New York, Feb. 6.—Federal league promoters seem to be possessed of the idea that their only worry is over ability to last through the coming mason. They convey the impression that, with the immediate problem of building teams and grandstands this year out of the way, their troubles will cease and all that remains to do in to hold a hig basket and let the dothars drop into it. Far be at from such. There are pienty of obstacies against the successful launching of distance in the successful launching dis against the successful launching of the proposition as a "big league," but the proposition as a "big league," but the are as nothing compared to what the new organization will be up accurate to keep itself going after once only one team to a city, they are fac-

Answer: Every- iged baseball.

What with all the noise about the One of the long-distance schemes of organized ball, in the event of its becoming necessary, is practically detected upon, it has been barned on reliable authority. An agreement will be made quietly to the effect that each dlob in the major leagues and each one in the Class AA leagues will aim to late one star player away from the Peda at the close of each season. This will mean that thirty-two clubs can.

What with all the noise about the "war" and its vicinsitides, the fact is atmost lost sight of that time for spring training has almost arrived. Before the month of February is out all the major league squads, with one or two exceptions, will be plunged into the preliminary work. In most cases, advance squads of ever-fat pitchers will go south before the main bodies, to boil, out at some sort of "springs," and in a number of in-"springs." and in a number of attend to thirty-two players in this stances a bunch of green youngsters. -are not "guzzlers" by any means; yet the vast majority do not permit their bodies to become understimulated. With mighty few exceptions, they take a small "nip" once or twice a day and know that it does them good. The "reform" advocate who tries to tell these men that whisky is "the demon that is eating into their health" are almost certain to be laughed at.

Men, such as we have referred to above, need no argument as to the advisability of taking an occasional drink; what we ask of them is to try our whisky. For 133 years we've been making it the same way. We believe it's as good as whisky can be made. Remember, its pure. And, pure whisky is strong. But, it's best for you. One drink of
